Our Online trading platforms are growing everyday due to their ease of use and eager to please customer support! Rather than having to wait to get somebody on the phone to place a trade, traders have the ability to place trades directly themselves. An important aspect that makes our online trading department different from most others is that we offer a variety of online platforms to meet the needs of practically any trader! Why settle for any online trading platform, when you can select the one that best suits your likes, and needs?

Platform Selections

Our Firetip software offers the end-user the ability to see streaming quotes on the many electronic contracts that the platform offers. Customers can enter and exit the market in the matter of seconds because of the direct access to the exchanges that this platform offers.

The CQG platforms provides the end-user the ability to place trades in all commodities 24 hours day/7 days a week (during market hours). Additionally it also allows a trader to receive streaming real time quotes and charts (market data fees may apply).

Our last platform, QST, offers the customer the ability to trade through a web browser. This is particularly useful for customers who are traveling and need to trade in a mobile style.

Additional Services

Along with the software we also provide traders with a first rate help desk, order desk and back office service. For technical support, assistance with placing trades, traders can call our help desk. To place trades in the event of an emergency, questions about the status of orders and general market knowledge, traders can utilize our order desk. If there is an issue with a trade showing incorrectly or a trade not being displayed at all, our back office experts can quickly solve it. In addition, our back office can also provide support on any margin questions that traders may have.

Meet Eric Oblon

Eric Oblon, is our senior Internet Trading Platform Consultant. He's very bright, knows computers backwards and forwards, and is very personable. His main function is to help any client in installing, using, and trouble shooting any problems with any of our trading platforms. You'll find Eric a pleasure to deal with!
